Traditional Spanish tapas bar offers a variety of basque pintxos and tapas along with an eclectic list of wines, ports and sheries. They even have select ports served straight from the cask. The first of the three taverns, the Port House South William Street was their first, opened in choice and quality is superb -with a tremendous selection to rival anything in San Sebastian these are really superb pintxos -not as... doesn't like about The Port House:

Charming venue Pleasant staff (however they ignored our negative comments) Poor quality and preparation of food. Mayonnaise in my opinion is not aioli. Galician bread (prob French baguette) not toasted, mushrooms reheated. No red wine jus with duck cannelloni Chickpeas served with 1 teeny weeny slice of chorizo, not much evidence of piquillo peppers, no parsley. Big profit margin on this dish. For those who at the end of the workday want to drink a beer and sit together with friends or by yourself, The Port House from Dublin is a good bar, the meat are freshly prepared here on an open flame. Of course, the right drink is crucial to accompany the meal; this gastropub offers a large selection of fine and local alcoholic beverages such as beer or wine, Dishes from Spain fascinate the visitors with their delicious savory sauces and spices.
