With promise of African influences, the menu unfortunately did not match. With the exception of scotch bonnet in every course except dessert, it could have been part of a menu from any part of the world. The spices sometimes did don't work with the delicate salmon. My beef was over cooked through through a water bath and the fat left congealed on the side. My sweetbread too was over cooked and very stringy and chew... read more. What User doesn't like about Ikoyi:

Only had options for the 7 or 9 course tasting menu (for the 9). The food was excellent, but it was expensive what I expected and filled the food. The staff was not helpful and amazing, we had to rush to the theater, and the staff and chefs ensured that we did not miss a course and rushed through our food (with our permission) without lowering the quality of food or service. Ikoyi from London is a good option for a bar if you want to have a drink after work and sit with friends or alone, Besides, the inventive blend of different meals with new and partially adventurous products is appreciated by the visitors - a beautiful case of Asian Fusion. If you'd like something after-dinner treat for dessert, Ikoyi does not disappoint with its good selection of desserts, Particularly the imaginative combinations of various products offer the visitors an unforgettable taste experience of this successful fusion cuisine.
