Kaifeng isn't cheap but it could well be the best kosher restaurant in London. It has strict Covid protocols in place with temperature checks on entry and a huge hand sanitising station. Its food remains as fresh, hot and tasty as we remembered from those...pre-Covid days when we were last there, and it was lovely to renew our acquaintance with what felt like an old friend. Well done Kaifeng and to its loyal, long-st... read more. When the weather is pleasant you can also be served outside. What Danielle Cook doesn't like about Kaifeng:

Disappointing and overpriced. If you pay upward of for a dish in a Chinese restaurant, you do expect a decent portion size. But you don't get one in Kaifeng. The beef dish which was in fact over consisted of seven pieces of meat padded out with large amounts of onion and lettuce. For dessert seven lychees cost There was no soft drinks menu and as the bill wasn't itemised so I dread to think how much the coffee and co... read more. During a meal, a good drink is essential. In this gastropub, you not only get delicious cuisine from the menu but also a comprehensive and particularly good assortment of good beers and other alcoholic beverages that go well with the food, there are also delicious vegetarian meals on the menu. In this restaurant there is also an large selection of coffee and tea specialties not to forget, You can take a break at the bar with a freshly tapped beer or other alcoholic and non-alcoholic drinks.
