The pavilion is part of the Birmingham Botanical Gardens and is very popular. We were there on a warm sunny afternoon. I can see why people hire the pavilion for weddings, it is set in beautiful gardens. There were several couples have their pictures taken in the lower flower gardens. read more. What DGoscar doesn't like about The Colonial Pavilion:

I'm not sure that we went to the same place as the other reviewers. Oddly difficult to find your way in and rather spooky in the dark deserted Botanical Gardens. The room itself is shockingly badly designed and furnished in a very 1980 's way. The gardens were not lit up at all so you could have been anywhere. The waitress, possibly Eastern European did not seem to know much about the food and although there were onl... read more. A journey through Great Britain without getting on a plane is effortlessly possible when it comes to culinary delights: The Colonial Pavilion in Birmingham traditionally shines for example with Fish and Chips, mashed potatoes or roast with Yorkshire Pudding and for dessert a delicious Trifle, The guests of the restaurant also appreciate the extensive variety of differing coffee and tea specialities that the establishment has to offer.
