At Papas Bilton, recent dining experiences have been marred by significant issues, primarily stemming from an inadequate heating system that left patrons shivering throughout their meals. Despite the consistently praised quality of the food, including delightful fish and chips, many guests expressed disappointment as their meals quickly cooled down. Service experiences varied, with some patrons enjoying cheerful and attentive interactions, while others reported unfriendliness. Additionally, takeout quality has reportedly declined, with stale chips and poorly battered fish becoming common complaints.
