We ate here for 3 nights. Service was generally good. Menu was almost the same every night. One night one special was changed. Food was well presented but lacked flavour. Steak was tough. Cabbage with 4 main courses. Fried Cabbage, Savoy in a creamy sauce that ruined the gravy with the meat. Wilted Cabbage. If Cabbage was not your thing, a problem. Duck was good but a very small portion. Having visited other Q Hotel... read more. The restaurant also offers the possibility to sit outside and have something in nice weather. What User doesn't like about The Rycote At The Oxford Belfry:

the menu is dull has very few exciting options, is predicated around a £28 spend and will win no awards. Frankly if it was not included in your tariff there is no incentive to stay. However having booked bed, breakfast and evening meal we stayed and indulged. The food was ok, nothing special and probably not worth what it allegedly cost and the winelist list is very overpriced for bog standard wines. There is nowhere else... read more.
