We stumbled across the Footstool Cafe in the crypt at St John's Smith Square. The Square is about half way between the Houses of Parliament and Lambeth Bridge. There was plenty of room in the cafe and a nice selection of pies, sausage rolls and tortillas along with other lunchtime favourites. We opted for the Chicken and Mushroom and Steak and Ale pies, both of which came with an amply sized side salad. Neither pie d... read more. When the weather is good you can also eat outside. What User doesn't like about Footstool Restaurant: Came in here for some much needed downtime at the end of a long afternoon of sightseeing in Westminster and a lot of walking. Loved the decor and ambience in the crypt setting. Definitely somewhere good to relax. I only had a pot of fresh mint tea, which was good and served in a big pot. Staff were helpful and efficient. Can't comment on the food offering. read more.
