the food was great and the staff very friendly, what had it been off was the long wait for our food. the restaurant has recently stopped selling alcohol and we were not told when we were on the phone, I don't think it would be a problem to take a few beers, it's just a pain when they arrive and then have to go back. read more. The restaurant is accessible and can therefore also be used with a wheelchair or physiological disabilities. What stacey_joyner doesn't like about Simla:

Food was really good, however the service was not so great. No napkins on any of the tables and when we asked for some with our meal we were brought a few cocktail napkins. No alcohol is served there (we were having a celebratory meal) but we didn't find this out until we were already seated as no one mentioned it when we made our reservation. We were the only table in there and felt the guys really took their foot o... read more. At Simla from Blandford Forum it's possible to savor delicious vegetarian meals, that were made without any animal meat or fish, One also prepares menus finely and freshly with original Indian spices. You can still relax at the bar after the meal (or during it) and enjoy a alcoholic or non-alcoholic drink.
