Had a lovely meal here, read the mixed reviews but gave it a chance. The mixed starter wasn't the best, would have been better with different options. Had a mixed meat masala which was delicious, really tender meat. Lovely naan bread. Didn't think much of the poppadoms and dips, tasted slightly stale and sauces bland. Other than that worth the visit! read more. In beautiful weather you can even be served in the outdoor area. What User

doesn't like about D'mughal's:

Not an option!! Google maps show their closing time as 11pm. We drive 30 KMs and arrived at 21.30pm, to be told they close at 10pm, not the time as advertised. No real interest from the staff, not a nice atmosphere when you enter. Avoid, there are many other nicer Indian restaurants within a few kilometres. read more. At the establishment you can enjoy the delicious savory dishes while enjoying the breathtaking view of the nearby monuments, there are also delicious vegetarian dishes on the menu. As a rule, most menus are prepared quickly for you and served, and you can look forward to the tasty typical seafood cuisine.
