The Crown restaurant has become a focal point for both delightful dining experiences and notable letdowns. While many patrons rave about the generous portions, friendly staff, and a welcoming atmosphere, others express disappointment, citing issues like small meal sizes and unappetizing food presentation. The festive parmo, homemade fries, and lamb dinner received accolades, promising a satisfying meal. Conversely, a birthday celebration marred by hair in food and disappointing desserts left a sour taste for one guest. Overall, while many recommend the Crown for its charm and quality, caution prevails for those seeking consistency.
