As two Aussies who many many years ago lived in London we knew all too well the coffee is always shocking. After a few terrible cafe Nero, star bucks, pret coffees we were over even ordering our morning hit. We stumbled literally across Antipode. The milk wasn't burnt and the coffee beans were full of roasted goodness. Aussies in London get your self to the best coffee in London ! read more. The restaurant and its rooms are wheelchair accessible and thus usable with a wheelchair or physiological disabilities, Depending on the weather, you can also sit outside and eat. What Daffodil484 doesn't like about Antipode:

I used to love this little coffee shop and visit it frequently, however I had a bad experience recently which has prompted me to write this review. The coffee shop was busy which is a good sign, but service was slow and confused, with no one knowing what was going on. A man in front of me bought a croissant that was the last one, which had already been sold to someone else. I only ordered two coffees and some toasted... read more.
