excellent service and eating. that is the oldest Indian restaurant in east dulwich. it has received a very loyal clientele (including some local media types). eating is 100% reliable: always excellent, with a wide selection. most unforgettable is the owner/manager who is charming and courteous, always remembers regular customers with their names. I would like to recommend this restaurant, but they need to book. View all feedback. What User doesn't like about Tandoori Nights:

Appalling Service. I would strongly recommend that any residents or visitors to East Dulwich should give this place a very very wide berth unless they want to be abused. The service is worse than abominal. We were offered one table and we suggested we might sit at another. No we were told firmly and pointed to another. The menus were not handed to us but rested against the wall with extreme bad grace. After an inordi... View all feedback.
